Simplex Shelf Fittings (Patent)

As adopted in the West Ham, East Ham, Bury, Greenock, Woolwich, Tonbridge and other Public Libraries; the Royal Arsenal Co-operative Library, Woolwich; Westminster College, Cambridge; &c.

THE Shelves can be raised or lowered by one person without removing or disarranging the books, thus saving much wear and tear, and in half the time required by any other system. No space is lost; no mechanism to get jammed, or otherwise out of order, or nip the fingers; no danger to Bindings by projecting metal or wooden fittings; no tilting of shelves. While No. 1 is perhaps the strongest, Nos. 2 and 3 are quite safe and reliable, and are cheaper and more readily fitted. We can guarantee these fittings to be the strongest yet designed. (The cost of Joinery with Nos. 2 and 3 is reduced to a minimum.)

Anyone interested in the question of Shelf Fittings is invited to visit the West Ham Public Library and test for themselves the comparative merits of the "Simplex," the "Tonks," and the "Perfect-Adjusting" Fittings, all of which are in use in the various departments.

N.B.—The route to the West Ham Library is from Liverpool Street Station to Stratford or Maryland Point, the latter Station being only three minutes walk from the Library.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS.

From G. J. JOHNSON, Esq., Chairman of the Books Committee, Public Libraries, Birmingham.

I have much pleasure in stating that your new shelf supports for Libraries are a very great improvement on all previous means of readily adjusting book shelves, and save space, as well as time and trouble in a Library.

From J. G. SMETON, Esq., M.A., Hon. Bursar and Librarian, Westminster College, Cambridge.

Your patent shelf supports have proved entirely satisfactory. I think your shelving almost perfect. It economises labour very greatly, and makes it thereby easy to economise space. (This library is entirely fitted with the COTGREAVE design for 30,000 Books.)

From W. BRIDLE, Esq., Chief Librarian, Public Libraries, East Ham.

It gives me pleasure to have an opportunity of expressing my opinion of the COTGREAVE Shelf Support with which our library at East Ham is fitted. As the library has been open nearly twelve months, I can speak with confidence on this matter. The special feature of this system is the rapidity and ease with which the shelves can be adjusted without disturbing the books thereon. Much valuable time is thus saved, and the wear and tear resulting from the continued shifting of books avoided. Having had experience of every kind of shelf fittings now in general use, both in England and America, I can firmly recommend the "COTGREAVE."

From W. SAINT, Esq., Builder, Railway Building Works, Cambridge.

I have been asked to give my opinion of the Cotgreave bookcase fittings. I have used a considerable number in the library of the new Presbyterian College at Cambridge, and in several private libraries, and all are very pleased with them. Before it was decided to use these fittings at the College, pattern bookcases were fitted up with Tonks', and Lucy's Oxford Self-Adjusting Fittings, but COTGREAVE'S were considered much superior to the others, and I have had private libraries to fit up with these Fittings through the owners seeing those at the College.

I strongly recommend their use as I think they are by far the best bookcase fittings in the market.

"Views and Memoranda of Public Libraries."

P R E F A C E .

THE collection of views and plans of libraries, portraits of librarians, &c., contained in this work, originated from the frequent desire of its author to obtain some idea of the appearance of certain libraries and their librarians, which after many references to likely books he was unable to gratify. Under the impression that his desire in this respect might be shared by others, he decided to make an attempt to gather together as large a number of views and portraits as possible, which, though not exhaustive, should at least provide the nucleus of a future and a larger collection.

The task of obtaining the necessary material has proved to be more difficult and costly than was at first anticipated, and as only 1,000 copies are printed, there is no margin for profit. However, there will be a sufficient reward for the labour and expenditure on the work if it is appreciated and found useful. Some little information may be required as to the reason for the different sizes of the views, plans, and portraits. In explanation, it may be said that applications were sent to all public libraries for printer's blocks, or photos and drawings from which they could be made, and when obtained, either from libraries or from books, they have been included in the work. The different sizes and styles of illustrations and blocks sent, have, of course, had much to do with the copies taken from them.

In this connection most cordial thanks are due to Mr. Thos. Greenwood, who supplied on loan a large number of printer's blocks; to Mr. J. Passmore Edwards, for permission to copy the illustrations in the Building News and other works, and to the librarians and other gentlemen who assisted in this direction. In the large amount of correspondence and various other matters concerned, valuable assistance has been received from Mr. P. W. Burbidge, one of the West Ham library assistants, who has devoted a considerable amount of his leisure time to this work. Thanks are also due to the printers, Messrs. Wilson and Whitworth, Ltd., and Mr. A. R. Cross, their foreman, for their care in the printing; and Mr. O. S. Dawson, engraver, for the trouble and interest he has taken in the preparation of the blocks.

In the frontispiece are given the portraits of two remarkable men in the world of libraries, the one, Mr. J. Passmore Edwards, noted for his princely generosity in founding libraries, hospitals, and other beneficent institutions; the other, Mr. Thomas Greenwood, for the devotion of many of the best years of his life to the promotion of public libraries, and for his well-known works on these institutions and their organization, which he has published at great cost, and practically given away wherever the progress of public libraries might be advanced thereby. It is singular that both these gentlemen are connected with the world of the press—Mr. Edwards as the original proprietor of the Echo, and present chief proprietor of the Building News, English Mechanic, &c.; and Mr. Greenwood, as owner of the Pottery Gazette, Hatters' Gazette, Oil & Colourman's Journal, &c. He is also sole partner in the firm of Scott, Greenwood & Co., publishers of high-class technical works.

The name of J. Passmore Edwards is almost a household word, and there are few in any rank of society but know at least some little about his philanthropic work for the poor; mentally, morally, and physically—mentally and morally, in his gifts of libraries, art galleries, museums and schools; physically, in his gifts of hospitals and convalescent homes. Mr. Edwards was born in Cornwall, which county has naturally received much consideration from him, and holds him in high esteem. His journalistic enterprises have been singularly successful, and have thus enabled him to devote an immense sum to philanthropic undertakings. He was M.P. for Salisbury 1880-5, and some years ago he was offered a title by Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, but respectfully declined the honour. It need scarcely be said that he is a man of wide intellectual endowments, and of the utmost liberality of opinion on all subjects.

Institutions Promised.

Public Libraries for East Camberwell, Bow, Plaistow, and Newton Abbot, Devonshire; and Sailors' Palace, Shadwell.

Mr. Thomas Greenwood had in early life the charge of a branch free library, and so gained a practical knowledge of these institutions and their readers, which has considerably aided him in the works he has written about them, and in his continual efforts for their development. It is undoubtedly a fact that but for his energetic efforts in 1885 and since, London would have been much farther behind the times as regards public libraries than it is now. There were certainly some thriving public libraries in the London suburbs before this period, the first of which (Richmond) practically owes its existence to Mr. E. King, then proprietor of the Richmond and Twickenham Times, and by its great success did much to prove the value and dispel the distrust of these institutions in neighbouring parishes. But the great progress in London itself is mainly due to Mr. Greenwood. In 1885 only two free public libraries existed in the Metropolis—the one at Westminster, opened 1856, and the other at Wandsworth, opened 1885. This latter, owing to its more prominent position, and the public spirit of its first chairman (Dr. Longstaff) did certainly attract some attention, and incited a few neighbouring districts to adopt the Acts; but it was not until Mr. Greenwood appeared upon the scene that any marked progress was made. The first important step in the movement was his publication in 1886, of "Free Public Libraries: their Organization, Uses, and Management," and the author of "Views and Memoranda," then Librarian of Wandsworth, is proud of the fact that the preface of that edition contains a very kind acknowledgment of the humble services he was permitted to render in the production of that valuable work. Mr. Greenwood circulated his work all over the Metropolis and the provinces, and as a result received innumerable letters from public authorities asking for advice and information. This, as also his time and services at public meetings and elsewhere, he gave without stint, and at the present time (some fifteen years since he first took action) there are nearly seventy public libraries in full and successful work in the Metropolitan area, not counting several in the provinces, a result which may be largely attributed to his continual and devoted efforts. We must certainly, in connection with the later libraries, concede much to the wealth and generosity of Mr. Passmore Edwards, without which many poor parishes could not have erected a library, however much they may have been influenced by Mr. Greenwood in the adoption of the Acts. Mr. Greenwood has also done much to encourage library assistants, and has given generous sums for prizes in connection with classes, &c. The author of "Views and Memoranda," values as the happiest of his many recollections of a long and varied library career, the kindly encouragement and commendation which he has frequently received from these gentlemen; long may they live to see the splendid and gratifying results of their philanthropic devotion to the public library movement. While considering the services these two gentlemen have given in the cause of libraries, we must not forget that others have contributed no mean amount of money and energy in the same direction, and the names of Sir Henry Tate, Sir J. Brunner, Mr. A. Carnegie, Sir William Gilstrap, Mr. W. Brown (Chester), Sir William Brown (Liverpool), Mr. E. R. Harris (Preston), Herr Hugo Heimann (Berlin), Mr. G. Heginbottom (Ashton-under-Lyne), Mr. William Palmer (Reading), and many others, will long be remembered with esteem and gratitude.

Neither must we forget the various associations which exist for the promotion of library progress. The first and largest of these is the Library Association with its affiliated branches in the metropolis and provinces. This body was founded in 1877, and has done good work, although probably more than half its members, being non-librarians, have no special interest in the management of public libraries.

The Society of Public Librarians, on the other hand, being limited exclusively to librarians of Free Libraries, the papers and discussions, and the general aims of this body, are eminently practical and are entirely devoted to promoting the interests of public libraries and their librarians, more particularly as regards improved methods of administration and advanced culture of the library staff. This society has been in existence for six years, and has been conducive to a higher appreciation of a librarian's duties, and to a wider and more liberal spirit, which has been proved by the extremely generous aid, financial and otherwise, accorded to comrades in adverse circumstances. The meetings are remarkable for the harmony and esprit de corps always in evidence among the members. We sincerely trust that this society will continue to flourish, for we feel certain that owing to the large number of public libraries now existing, a society exclusively representing their interests, as also those of their librarians, is extremely necessary, and should be supported largely.

The Library Assistants' Association is another useful society which has done, and is doing, very good work among the younger members of the profession.

Although the aim of this work is primarily to give views, plans, etc., of the libraries of the United Kingdom, a few of the most famous libraries of other countries have been included; and in one case, that of the Öffentliche Bibliothek, Berlin, we have not only succeeded in obtaining views of the library, but also portraits of Herr Heimann, the generous founder of that institution, and of his admirable wife, who has been closely associated with him in his various efforts for the social advancement and elevation of the working classes of Germany. Not only has this gentleman devoted largely of his wealth in the foundation and endowment of the important institution referred to, but he also gives—what adds immensely to the material aid—his time and intellectual assistance to the numerous readers and students who use this institution. His long and wide connection with books as a publisher, renders such assistance of especial value.

A few portraits of ladies, who are not librarians, have been given owing to the particular interest they have taken in the progress of the Public Library Movement.

In connection with the libraries, views of which appear in this work, we have pleasure in expressing our thanks to Messrs. Gibson and Russell, the architects of the beautiful and splendidly designed building erected at West Ham, and to the clerk of the works (Mr. Kellond), for their kind information and general assistance during the progress of the work.

We regret that owing to ill health and other unavoidable causes the publication of "Views and Memoranda" has been so long delayed, and that some of the libraries mentioned in the work have issued later statistics which cannot be inserted in the pages concerning such libraries, which have been printed off. Little change, however, has taken place in the figures given, which are, in the mean, fairly representative. For accurate up-to-date figures and general information relating to public and other libraries no better work exists than Greenwood's "British Library Year Book." The statistical tables of the edition for 1900 will be found on page 313.

With all its shortcomings, it is hoped that this collection of views may still possess some little utility by adding its mite in promoting the public interest in these universities of the people.

In the year 1878, the Corporation acquired the requisite Acts to form a Library and Museum, and the start was aided by the purchase of the property of the Literary and Philosophical Society, consisting of over four thousand volumes of useful books in various classes of literature, and many objects forming the nucleus of the present Museum.

The Lending Library and News Room were opened for public use on January 1st, 1879, in the large room on the ground floor of the Town Hall.

In 1882, a scheme was formulated whereby funds from the estate of the late Edmund Robert Harris were granted by the trustees for the erection of the Harris Free Public Library and Museum. The foundation stone was laid with Masonic honours during the Guild week of 1882, by the Earl of Lathom. The amount granted was one hundred and five thousand pounds. The Corporation gave the site, worth thirty thousand pounds, and undertook the provision of the Lending Library and News Rooms, and the care, service, and maintenance, in perpetuity, of the building and of the collections contained in it.

The ceremonial opening took place in October, 1893, the Earl of Derby performing that function. The actual opening was on the 1st of January, 1894, since which date the Newsham bequest of Pictures and other Works of Art, the Patents Library, the Shepherd's Library and the Museum have found their home in this Institution.

This room, with gallery running round, was (with the exception of the shelving) the Jubilee Gift (1887) of the Library's late Chairman (Mr. Wm. Brown, J.P.), and cost £1,678. Since the present Librarian's appointment, the Library has received in donations, £1,400 (original purchase cost of old Mechanic's Institute), and three other donations, expended in books, of £600, and two of £100. Open access has been tried in Lending and Reference Departments, but abolished, after a fair trial. There is no demand for the system. Recently, an open book case, made to contain about 60 vols. of books of reference, such as Dictionaries, Gazettes, Annuals, &c., has been placed on the counter in the Reference Library, where readers may help themselves, an approximate record of number of works referred to being kept. This is already much appreciated. There is, besides, a glazed case, for showing illustrated and otherwise costly works, and recent accessions, placed in this department.

MR. J. LINWOOD PITTS, M.J.I., F.S.A. (Normandy).

Mr. Linwood Pitts, the managing director of the Guille-Allè's Library, is a native of the East Riding of Yorkshire. Years ago health reasons caused him to project a short visit to the charming and salubrious little island of Guernsey. There he met those two philanthropic Guernseymen, the late Mr. Guille and the late Mr. Allès, who were then just about to commence that munificent scheme of intellectual and educational endowment, with which their names have since become, and will henceforth for ever remain, inseparably linked. Congenial tastes resulted in mutual friendship—intimate, opportune, and lasting. Mr. Pitts' proposed brief visit became a life-long sojourn; and now, for nearly a quarter of a century he has been closely connected with every phase of the organization and development of this splendid Institution—and of its more recent branch the Guille-Allès Artisans' Institute. He is greatly interested in the history, the antiquities, and the folklore of the Channel Islands, and is the author of several popular works on the Franco-Norman dialects, the patois poems, the witchcraft superstitions, &c., &c., of this picturesque little island group. Mr. Pitts is a Member of the Institute of Journalists, having joined in the early days, long before its incorporation by royal charter; President of the Guernsey Shorthand Writers' Association—a local society that has done much to spread a practical knowledge of Phonography in the Island; a Member of the English Folklore Society; Membre de la Société des Antiquaires de Normandie; Membre de la Société d'Archeologie, de Littérature, Sciences et Arts, d'Avranches et de Mortain, &c., &c.

Rowswell has been connected with the Guille-Allès Library for the last eighteen years, having, on leaving school in 1883, been appointed Assistant by the Founders of the Institution, the late Mr. T. Guille and Mr. F. M. Allès. During Mr. A. Cotgreave's important work of re-organizing the Library and compiling the well-known Encyclopædic Catalogue (1888-1890), Mr. Rowswell held the position of Sub-Librarian, and ably assisted in the compilation of the catalogue. Upon the completion of Mr. Cotgreave's work in 1890, Mr. Rowswell succeeded to the Chief Librarianship, which post he still holds. Ten years ago, having a knowledge of Phonography, Mr. Rowswell took charge of the Shorthand Classes held in connection with the Library, which, being an ardent lover of the "winged art," he still conducts, and also holds the office of Treasurer and Secretary to the Guernsey Shorthand Writers' Association. Amongst other pursuits, he is much interested in Meteorology. He has made a study of the science, and possesses a set of standard instruments for recording the temperature and rainfall, etc., of the island, the result of his observations appearing regularly in the local papers, and also, as regards rainfall, in Symons' British Rainfall.

The Cotgreave Ledger or Book Indicator.

AN INDICATOR FRAME FOR 4,000 NUMBERED OR LETTERED SLIDES OR BOOKS. (Largest Scale).

Reduced Scale only requires 10 inches per 1,000.

The Simplex Card-Charging Indicator.

Record under both Book and Borrower. No entries required by Staff. The most recent design.

N.B.—Those desiring to use the Card-Charging or Ledger System with an Indicator, are invited to apply for further information.

INDICATOR BOOK WITHDRAWN FROM THE INDICATOR RACK.

OVER two millions of these small numbered Registers are now in daily use. The ends of the Indicator Books are in different colours, so that by reversing them in the rack the various books represented are shown in or out, or the number can be covered altogether with the date slide, if used. When required the titles are supplied instead of, or in addition to, the numbers. All our magazine Indicators now in use are made on this plan.

Over 200 other Institutions at home and abroad use the Cotgreave Indicators.

These Indicators have the following advantages over others:—

- 1.—Can be put in considerably less counter space if required.
- 2.—Keep permanent records if required and do more work in every direction.
- 3.—Are simpler and quicker in operation, and easily worked by any boy assistant.
- 4.—Exhibit overdue books automatically and accurately.
- 5.—Are not so high, and are much more easily fitted.
- 6.—Cost of Indicator and maintenance of same, much less.
- 7.—Made to show titles and authors of books, if required.
- 8.—Statistics, e.g.: Work of each book, books borrowed by each borrower, number and class of books issued each day, and other statistics, impossible to obtain with other Indicators, are given with the Cotgreave.
- 9.—Each number being movable they are as easily re-arranged, added to, &c., as the books upon the shelves.
- 10.—The numbers can be seen twice the distance of those of other Indicators.
- 11.—The numbers of books out are covered entirely if required, or shown in or out, by change of colours.
- 12.—The numbers are printed on any colour preferred, a great advantage in cases of weakness of sight, colour blindness, &c.

SOME USEFUL LIBRARY AIDS.

Library Indicators.

(To denote the Books or Magazines IN or OUT, keep records of same, &c.)

THE BOOK or RECORDING INDICATOR.

Keeps a permanent record of all the issues, and gives the complete history of the books it represents, title and author, date of publication, number of vols., &c., &c.

THE SIMPLEX COMBINED INDICATOR AND CARD-CHARGING DRAWER.

Keeps a treble record. (1) in indicator under number of book; (2) in charging-drawer, under number or name of borrower; (3) borrower can enter number of book required, if in, upon his book ticket before handing same in, and thus keep a permanent record of the books previously borrowed. Dates of Issue, Overdues, &c., are declared automatically.

Both the above Indicators can be adapted to suit the special arrangements or requirements of any Library.

Mr. Passmore Edwards' Architect having circularized all the Public Librarians in the United Kingdom as to the best method of issuing books, nine-tenths of the replies advocated the above Indicators. Vide copies of letters printed by permission.

"LIBRARY CONSTRUCTION, ARCHITECTURE, FITTINGS, AND FURNITURE."

By F. J. BURGOYNE.

"The Cotgreave Indicator is that in use in the majority of the British Free Libraries."

"THE FREE LIBRARY: ITS HISTORY AND PRESENT CONDITION."

By J. J. OGLE.

"The Recording Indicator is almost certainly the invention of Mr. A. Cotgreave (Public Libraries, West Ham, London, E.) and is that most largely used."*

"THE SCOTSMAN."

"All the London Free Public Libraries which use indicators, except one, have adopted the Cotgreave Indicators which have been found to work well."†

N.B.—See also "Greater London," by E. Walford, M.A., F.S.A. (page 360); "Methods of Social Reform," by Professor W. Stanley Jevons, M.A., F.R.S., LL.D.; "Public Libraries," by T. Greenwood, F.R.G.S.; &c., &c.

* As a matter of fact these indicators will be found in about nine-tenths of the Libraries using this system. Over 350 Institutions are now using the Cotgreave Indicators, and they have recently been adopted at the Bishopsgate Institute, London (which previously worked on the open access system), and at the Greenock, Bury, Woolwich, and other new Public Libraries.

† Sixty-two Public Libraries in London and the Metropolitan area are using them.

THE SIMPLEX SHELF FITTINGS.

The Shelves can be raised or lowered by one person without removing or disarranging the books, and in half the time required by any other system. No space is lost; no mechanism to get jammed, or otherwise out of order, or nip the fingers; no danger to Bindings by projecting metal or wooden fittings; no tilting of shelves. Two-thirds of the woodwork required with other designs can be saved, while the cost of joinery is greatly reduced. These fittings have been adopted at a large number of public libraries and other institutions, and have given every satisfaction, vide testimonials from their Librarians and Committees.

COTGREAVE'S MAGAZINE RACK,

Used in several hundred Libraries and other Institutions.

FREE LIBRARY, TWICKENHAM.

Cotgreave's Periodical Rack is a very ingenious and useful invention. It greatly economises the space required for displaying the numerous periodicals, and, as the titles are arranged alphabetically therein, they can be seen at a glance and readily found, thus saving the time both of the assistants and readers. By its means the Reading Room can be kept much more tidy and orderly, and hence it gives general satisfaction, and is becoming generally adopted in Free Libraries and other Reading Rooms.

EDWARD MAYNARD,
Chief Librarian.

FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY, WANDSWORTH.

DEAR SIR,

The Periodical Rack has been in use in the newsroom here since the opening of the Library. I can unhesitatingly speak of its value, for it greatly tends to keep the tables tidy.

Being so compact it takes up little room, and a reader can see at a glance the periodical he wishes to read.

Yours respectfully,
C. T. DAVIS,
Secretary and Librarian.

BIRKBECK LITERARY AND SCIENTIFIC INSTITUTION, BREAM'S BUILDINGS, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON.

DEAR SIR,

The Periodical Rack you supplied to this Institution has met a want which has been long been felt. In place of the disorder and inconvenience which results when a large number of periodicals are placed on the reading tables, can now be found at once, and tables, and which renders it extremely difficult to find what is required, the particular publication wanted can now be found at once, and the Rack shows at a glance what publications are placed in the room.

I think it is a most valuable addition to any reading room which is supplied with periodical literature.

I am, yours faithfully,

W. H. CONGREVE, Secretary and Librarian.

BRIEF EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS.

The Academy.—"Every entry is a piece of special information, and as there are many thousand entries in this book, we consider that Mr. Cotgreave has done a great service to literary workers and students."

Literature.—"This is a work which deserves a welcome. The arrangement is good, and particularly the way in which the reader is guided to references on different aspects of a question. Mr. Cotgreave's labour certainly deserves recognition."

Literary World.—"The Author has put all students of books under an obligation in compiling this valuable index. Not less than 100,000 volumes have been referred to, and every library should be supplied with a copy."

Saturday Review.—"It represents a vast amount of work and will be prized by students of current literature. Whatever its limitations the book will be a boon to all who have to prepare topical essays."

London Argus.—"Primarily, the book is intended for use in the excellent libraries of West Ham. However, the book is one which no literary or public man can afford to be without."

Municipal Journal.—"Mr. Cotgreave has done his work well, and has thereby rendered another important service to the Free Library Movement. The value of the index to these institutions cannot be over-estimated."

Weekly Times and Echo.—"Multitudes will find the Index of inestimable assistance."

Scotsman.—"This is a useful and valuable compilation, and deserves a place in any Public Library."

Irish Times.—"It is a monument of industry, and will be found serviceable by all who have to speak or write on public affairs."

Western Mail.—"This is a thoroughly useful volume to everybody who has to do with books or periodicals. The advantage of such a guide to every writer or student is obviously very great."

Birmingham Post.—"This valuable work has been prepared at the expense of the West Ham Public Libraries Authorities for their own excellent Libraries, and it is owing to their commendable thoughtfulness, and we may add generosity, that so modest a price is asked for it from the general public."

Glasgow Herald.—"The work is one for which literary workers will be thankful."

Daily News.—"The need for a handy index to the contents of our books and periodicals is so obvious that it is unnecessary to dwell upon the utility of this volume, which furnishes a ready key to the most important contents of something like 100,000 volumes. It affords valuable help to the searcher for information, and is further recommended by its moderate price."

Notes and Queries.—"A work which cannot fail to be widely used. Nothing is more difficult than to find readily old magazine articles. This task will be much simplified by keeping such a compact volume as this within reach."

Westminster Gazette.—"Supplies a pressing want by indexing under subject-headings important articles and references from the contents of works, which would otherwise remain practically unknown and valueless. The book will be found exceedingly useful, and its preparation, which must have entailed great labour, seems to have been carried out with every care and accuracy."

Liverpool Courier.—"A most useful and very welcome work. It contains 750 closely-printed pages, and is, on the whole, representative, valuable and certain to become popular. Seems destined to be accepted in many quarters, not only in this country, but in the Colonies and America."

Morning Advertiser.—"The compiler is to be congratulated on the care and industry displayed in the 'Contents-Subject Index.' To those engaged in literary research this carefully-compiled and well-arranged Index will be found invaluable, and we trust the work will receive the support which it undoubtedly deserves."

Yorkshire Post.—"While bibliophiles have been discussing the desirability or otherwise of compiling a subject-index to the national library at the British Museum, the librarian at a very useful but much smaller institution has carried out the idea at his own library with great benefit to his students. The book will be of great utility."

Review of Reviews.—"The author is to be congratulated on the successful completion of this work. What a long-felt want such general indexes have been is well known to those who have occasion to get up special subjects at short notice. The classified catalogue, useful as it is, takes little notice of the separate contents of books; this 'Index' on the other hand, makes this a leading feature."

Nature.—"Will prove a handy and inexpensive guide to a mass of heterogeneous articles, books, and papers. Anyone desirous to know a few contributions on any subject has only to refer to this 'Index,' and he will find some to serve his purpose."

Architect.—"The author has filled a volume of 750 pages with the names of books and articles relating to an immense variety of subjects. The book is a cheap guide, which will make the search for information comparatively easy. The labour required in its production must have been enormous, and even the omniscient Macaulay would have to own that the pages suggested much that he did not know."

British and Colonial Printer.—"A welcome and valuable publication. Serviceable to the general reader of subjects of more or less general importance. This useful book has been well received by the librarians of this country, the Colonies, and the United States, and is priced at considerably below the cost of production."

Graphic.—"The utility of such a work is beyond dispute, and that it is done thoroughly may be inferred when we point out that there are considerably over 200 references to books and magazines under the heading 'Transvaal.' Every one who has ever had occasion to search for information in a public library will appreciate the value of the work and will rejoice to find that it is published at a very reasonable price."

Leisure Hour.—"It should have a place in public libraries everywhere, and would be found serviceable also on many private shelves."

The above work can be obtained from the Public Libraries, Stratford, London, E., Elliot Stock, 62, Paternoster Row, London, E.C., or from any Bookseller.
